

DE-RISKING THE FUTURE OF EUROPE

REFORMING THE MACROFINANCIAL ARCHITECTURE

Keynote Address by Vitór Constâncio

Former Vice President of the ECB

WEDNESDAY 11 SEPTEMBER 2019

AT THE LONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS

Old Building, Houghton Street, London

In the aftermath of the sovereign debt crisis, the architecture of economic and financial governance in the European Union changed at an unprecedented pace. Member States have put in place crucial pillars of the Banking Union and the Capital Markets Union.

But progress on both projects has slowed down. As the new European Commission takes office, the work towards reforming the Economic and Monetary Union will likely revive. Agreed plans to attain banking and financial integration have not yet been completed; plus additional institutional and policy arrangements could become handy to contain systemic risk, shall a new crisis hit European markets.

Brexit questions aside, how to move from the political conundrum that split European countries on the risk-sharing risk-reduction battlefield? • How to finalise the work done on the neutralization of the bank-sovereign nexus? • What feature should a European common deposit insurance scheme have in order to become a viable tool? • How to design counter-cyclical fiscal tools that Member States can deploy during recessions? • Should a single sovereign issuing safe debt be introduced at EU level? – These are just some of the question that invited experts will try to answer.

The conference will be the occasion for policy-makers and academic experts to reflect and exchange on the pros and cons of different models to design further financial integration within the Euro area and the whole of Europe.
